

Many Await Annual Canoe Carnival

Everything seems to be working out fine in the plans of the various committees for the annual Canoe Carnival.

Jack Redhead, in charge of the water sports contests, plans a more interesting program than ever before. There will be fly casting contests, both for accuracy and distance; canoe tilting contests, greased pole walking, and many other events. These contests are open to everyone and those wishing to enter should file their names with Jack Redhead at once.

The boxing tournament committee, with Harley Russell as chairman, have everything in readiness for a real tournament. Twelve bouts are arranged with contestants being picked from Cheboygan, Rose City, Grayling, and CCC camps. The judges will be Buck Fleming of Jackson and Roscoe Bennett of Grand Rapids, both being official Golden Gloves judges. Selection of referee will be made within a few days.

The canoe trip down the Au-Sable will get under way Sunday morning, August 14th, at 9 o'clock.

All canoes and boats are to be at the bridge at 8 o'clock the morning of the 14th, and you should register upon your arrival, as the boats will be loaded and released in the same order they arrive.

Reservations for the boxing tournament and canoe trip should be made at once. Reserve seats for the boxing tournament can be secured from Harley Russell and the canoe trip reservations can be made by calling R. A. Wright at phone 162.

(Note)—Those owning canoes and river boats should enter them at once with Ernie Borchers. You will receive $6.50 for your canoe and guide to handle it on the trip.

Beloved Resident Passes Away

FUNERAL FRIDAY AFTERNOON AT MICHELSON MEMORIAL CHURCH

Mrs. Corwin, wife of Nelson Corwin, proprietor of Corwin Auto Sales, passed away Tuesday afternoon at her home following a serious illness of nearly a year's duration.

Myrtle A. Boyd was born October 30, 1879, in Monroe county, West Virginia. She was united in marriage to Nelson Corwin, of Grayling, August 18, 1899, and they have since made their home here. To this union were born four daughters and one son, Mrs. Eugene Baker (Mildred), of Indianapolis; Mrs. Carl Hanson (Francesca); Mrs. George Hilton (Bernice), Miss Ruth Corwin, and Menno Corwin, all of Grayling.

Mrs. Corwin had been a faithful worker of Michelson Memorial church for many years. Besides serving on the Church Board of Trustees, she was President of the Ladies Aid society of the Michelson Memorial church for a number of years, and president of the Women's Home Missionary society for seven years. She also was an active member in the Repeah Lodge many years.

She had several hobbies, chief among which was her love for flowers, spending many pleasant hours in her garden which was regarded as one of the most beautiful in the city. During her long illness she was constantly surrounded by beautiful bouquets of flowers, tributes from her many friends.

She was greatly loved by all who knew her for her kindness to others, and willingness to help all who were in need. She was a beautiful homemaker and exemplary wife and mother, and her sunny smile and cheerful disposition will be greatly missed by her family and friends.

Surviving besides the husband and children are eight grandchildren, all of this city, and nine brothers and sisters, residing in Virginia and West Virginia.

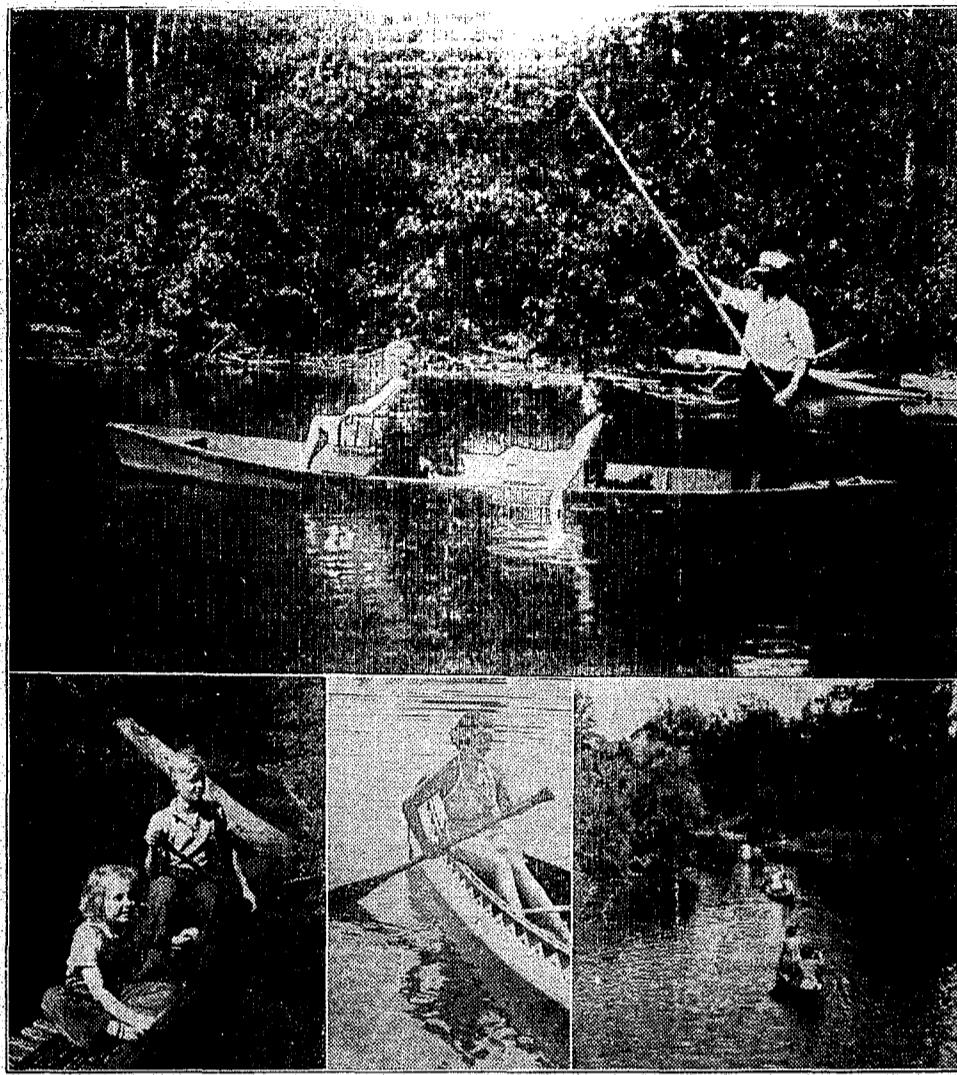

Funeral services will be held at the Michelson Memorial church on Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Reverend H. W. Kuhlman will conduct the services.

A fitting expression to her life may be found in Bryant's Thaumatopeia:

"So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan which moves to that mysterious realm where each shall take His chamber in the silent halls of death;
Thou go not, like the quarry slave at night
Scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch around him, And lies down to pleasant dreams."

Guide School Classes Opened Tuesday

CLASSES IN FLY MAKING ARE FIRST TO START

While about 30 have intimated that they will enroll in the "Guide School", a WPA project, Tuesday morning found only about 15 to start the class in fish fly making. This class is being held in one of the Winter Sports park buildings. Others will join the classes just as soon as the men are released from other W.P.A. projects.

A number of the members in the classes have had some experience in this work, while others had no knowledge of the art whatsoever. Fred Carr is instructing the classes and began the studies by teaching the simplest fundamental principles in fly making. Some of the efforts by the pupils were crude and worthless but with each new effort rapid improvement was shown and it is believed that it won't be long before the intricacies of fly tying will be well accomplished.

Then comes the task of knowing what is being made and what materials are used to produce the kind of fly desired. There are hundreds of varieties of trout flies and feathers and hairs of wide varieties are required. Some of these have to be imported from foreign countries, while some are found in our chicken yards and among local wild game birds and animals. It's a great study and the members of the classes are going to find out that there is a lot to learn about fly making.

Wednesday, Aug. 10th, West Branch club will be guests of our Auxiliary. There will be golf at 10:00 a.m.; luncheon at 1:00 p.m. and bridge in the afternoon.

The local ladies have been invited to be guests of the Roscommon ladies Wednesday, August 17th.

Young Man Dies of Strangulation

HONORED WITH FAREWELL PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hewitt, the former a member of Grayling Post 106 and the latter a member of the Auxiliary, who are leaving Grayling soon to reside in Cadillac, were honored with a farewell party at the Legion hall Saturday night. Mr. Hewitt has long been affiliated with Grayling Post, holding many offices in the organization and capably filling them. Mrs. Hewitt likewise has been an active member of the Auxiliary.

Showing their appreciation the members of the Auxiliary arranged the party and some 30 responded to the invitation. For entertainment the merry crowd enjoyed round and square dances and this filled the bill of entertainment to perfection.

One long table in the dining room was set for the crowd at lunch time and was attractive with two black bowls filled with varicolored garden blooms and guarded by green tapers. A delicious lunch was served following which Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt were presented with a gift, Wilfred Laurant making the presentation speech in which he lauded Comrade Hewitt for his record as a member and office holder, he capably taking care of anything set before him. Mrs. Adolph Peterson in behalf of the Auxiliary spoke a few words of appreciation for Mrs. Hewitt. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt responded graciously, and following another hour or so of dancing the crowd bid farewell to the Hewitts.

Van Wagoner Likes Germany's Roads

Federal aid in financing right-of-way was advocated this week by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner in the construction of limited way highways.

The Commissioner, who rechin and side of neck. The body turned to his desk several weeks ago following his attendance at the International Road Congress at The Hague, praised the new limited highways known as "autobahns" in Germany. Railroad grades are separated, cross traffic intersections are limited, pedestrian overpasses have been erected, and traffic is divided along this new superhighway.

"Germany has the roads while we have the traffic," the commissioner said. "It seems to me that if Germany can build roads of this type, the United States, home of the world's automobile industry, can do the same."

The commissioner said he favored the use of Federal funds to finance half the cost of right-of-way, construction, and maintenance on limited way highways. He estimated that it would cost approximately $250,000 a mile to build a road of the German type in Michigan.

Van Wagoner said he saw no possibility of limited way road construction in Michigan under the present financial set-up. "We just don't have the money," he said.

He added that such a road might well be justified on an entirely new location between Detroit and Chicago.

To Republican Voters of 28th Sen. Dist.

You have renominated me for the office of State Senator from this District for the second time and for this expression of confidence I am profoundly grateful and I promise you that I will do my best to represent you as your Senator in the session of 1939 Legislature.

I want to thank the Press of the District for their kind consideration during my first term in the Senate; they have been liberal with their praise and considerate of my short-comings and for this helpful service, I am also grateful.

The 28th. Senatorial District comprised of ten counties is one of the largest in the State. Its problems are many but if we work together most of them can be solved to our satisfaction, and I am asking for your criticism and helpful suggestions.

Sincerely yours,

Biological Station Holding Open Day

AT DOUGLAS LAKE SUNDAY, AUGUST 7TH

The general public is cordially invited to visit the Biological Station of the University of Michigan at its eleventh Annual Visitors Day on August 7, 1938, from 2 to 5 P. M. Eastern Standard Time. Educational exhibits illustrating the work of the classes and scientific investigations will be on display. All those who wish to learn more of the plants and animals of northern Michigan as well as those who want to become acquainted with the type of work done at the Biological Station will find the displays of value. Members of the faculty will be glad to discuss rare plants and animals and biological problems with visitors.

The Biological Station is located on the southeast shore of Douglas Lake, Cheboygan county, on the Cheboygan-Petoskey road thirteen miles southwest of Cheboygan. The roads from Cheboygan, Topinabee, Brutus and Pellston will be posted with signs directing visitors to the Station. Ample room has been provided for parking cars. There will be help in parking and guide service. There is no charge for admission to the grounds and to all places of interest. It is suggested that readers of this notice bring this event to the attention of their friends and neighbors, and especially to the attention of summer residents. Come and see what this division of your State University is doing in your midst.

The Biological Station was established in 1909 and has held an eight week's session every summer since that time. Its founders had two principle objectives, namely, to investigate biological problems and to bring students and teachers into direct contact with living animals and plants in their natural surroundings. These still remain the chief objectives of the Station.

LOCAL RAIL EMPLOYEES EARN $30,000 ANNUALLY

The economic value of the railroads to Crawford county is featured in a poster prepared by the Michigan Railroad Employees and Citizens League and currently being exhibited in all railroad stations in this county and in the state.

The poster emphasizes the railroads' importance on the basis of employees, payrolls, mileage and taxes in each county.

In this county are 21 rail employees, earning $29,838.41 yearly. There are 29 miles of track and $4,697.47 of the state's railroad taxes come into this county in the form of primary money for school purposes.

"Michigan's railroads are among the state's three ranking industries and its greatest single taxpayer," Floyd E. Drake, executive secretary of the League and author of the poster, declares in discussing it. "They surpass every other industry in the universal fashion in which they serve the state. Their tracks, trains, stations and employees are in every county. Their payrolls are earned and spent in every county, supporting local families, helping to maintain many homes and to pay taxes on them and helping to make prosperous the business in each county.

Their tax payments filter into every county, in many instances constituting the greatest single tax revenue of the county. All this, in addition to functioning as the state's most vital agency in transportation.

"No other form of transportation approaches the railroads as an economic, labor-creating, tax-producing or transportation factor in any county in Michigan. It is for these reasons our League is asking the broader public viewpoint and more tolerant legislative attitude toward the railroads that are needed to insure their continued efficient operation."

Poppy, according to mythology, is a blossom of evil omen. They were offered to the dead since they signified sleep. Glaucus, the son of Neptune, once caught a fish. Judson Van Arsdale, fifty-nine-year-old carpenter of Matawan, N. J., who has been married twice before and who put himself on the spot a couple of months ago by sending $20 to a western matrimonial agency to see if it could find him a helpmate to share his hearth. Now two prospective brides are barricaded in his home, each trying to prove to Judson that she is the best housewife. "Both are nice, good women," Van Arsdale confided. "They both are swell cooks, and I like them both. Of course, I don't love them, but I like them both very much. I can't decide which one to marry." The carpenter admitted. "So the two of them are staying on. I'll let them talk it over and whatever they decide, why that's the one I'm going to marry."

Family Life of Bob White

The family life of the Bob White is ideal. Both parents are equally concerned with rearing the brood, and if the female is killed, the male will care for the young unaided until they are well grown. In fact, the domestic instinct is so strong in the male that "bachelor" Bob White has often been detected in the act of kidnaping of a young brood and carefully rearing them to maturity.

Mint an Important Crop and Reaches Wide Market

Mint is one of the most important of all essential producers of aromatic oil, the product distilled from it going to widespread markets in large quantities to help supply the need for medicinal compounds, confectioners' flavorings and extracts. Menthol and piperitone also come from mint, the former being prepared in Japan from one species, while piperitone is American, produced from an entirely different kind of mint.

Japanese mint culture is confined to a single spot in northern Japan, the island of Hondo, where just one species, Mentha arvensis, variety piperascens, is grown exclusively. This particular mint is not known in wild form. It is inferior to the best grades of commercial mint but it is the original source of menthol, besides which its oil, when distilled, exceeds all others in the quantitative menthol crystal production.

Best known of our mints, states a writer in the Los Angeles Times, is "peppermint" or Mentha piperita, the commonly designated American mint. In New York this same mint, which reaches a height of three feet, is known as State mint.

Mentha piperita, variety vulgaris, the so-called black mint, is a dark type of a little less height than peppermint but with thicker stems and heavier, broader leaves. It ranks near the top as a popular commercial kind.

One sort, entirely different from the others, is Mentha citrata, or lemon mint. Oil from this species is used extensively in perfume manufacture.

The small, hairy-leaved species, M. pulegium, provides the oil from which is distilled the Pennyroyal of commerce. Spearmint, or Mentha spicata, is a household word in this country.

Left to right: Eugene Atkinson, University of Michigan geologist; Miss Alzada Clover, University of Michigan botanist; Don Harris of Soda Springs, Idaho, a Geological survey employee; Norman D. Nevills of Mexican Hat, Utah, the leader; Miss Lois Jotter, also of the University of Michigan and assistant to Miss Clover, and W. C. Gibson, artist-photographer of San Francisco.

The Avalanche reported that the group had been missing for nearly a month, having started their journey on July 1st. They had been forced to abandon their original boats due to damage and had to construct new ones from available materials. The group consisted of six men and one woman, all in their late 20s or early 30s. They had planned to explore the Colorado River from its headwaters in Colorado to its mouth in the Gulf of California. The expedition faced numerous challenges, including harsh weather, lack of supplies, and difficult navigation. The group's journey took them through some of the most rugged and dangerous terrain in the American Southwest. They faced many obstacles, including rapids, falls, and even a bear attack. Despite these challenges, the group managed to complete their journey and return to civilization. The Avalanche reported that the group was in good spirits and looking forward to sharing their

At noon it was 92 in the shade and at 6:00 p.m. it stood at 86. A heavy electric and rain storm last night quite relieved the heat and at 10:30 a.m. today it was 76. All buildings of St. Mary's parish have been repainted on the outside and the church has been beautifully re-decorated on the interior. Ceiling and walls are painted in ivory and the woodwork and seats are done in light oak varnish, with the floor a darker shade. Altars are immaculately white, trimmed in gold, and all statues have been re-done. M. E. Von Mach & Son Inc., of Detroit, who are artists in their line did the work and certainly transformed the interior of the church into a beautiful edifice. Adding to its beauty Mrs. Thomas Cassidy recently contributed a stained glass window of the Immaculate Conception that is placed in back of the main altar, and is in memory of Mr. Cassidy and their daughter Mrs. Rose Ahman. Buildings of St. Michael's church, Roscommon are receiving the same treatment, and the work is being done by the same firm.

Believe it or not, but 'taint so even if Spike says so. With him heading a party starting for Cuba via "Kansas City to Stone-way, Cuba" by plane, with Abe, Johnny, Pat Cowell and Doc Cook, all riding with Paul, it sounded like a grand trip. But when Spike was the only one in the party who knew anything about the trip, we didn't go to the airport to see 'em off.

The Baby In Summer

Rules for the maintenance of the baby's health during the summer months are few and simple:

Keep him cool.
Keep him clean.
Keep him quiet.
Keep his food and water pure. However much it may interfere with the plans of the family which dotes on "roughing it" at northern camps or lake cottage, the baby in his first or second summer should be kept at home where, alone, provisions for his health and comfort may be insured.

Rooms may be kept dark and cool during the heat of the day and the infant may be transferred to well screened and shaded porches for his naps. It should be remembered that the growing baby produces more heat per unit of surface than does the adult's. Moreover, the mechanism for controlling body temperature is not as well developed. Chiefly, cooling takes place through the evaporation of water from the surface of the skin. For this reason it is vitally necessary that the skin be kept scrupulously clean and the pores free and, also, that the water lost be replaced by a larger intake than during the cooler months.

Every effort should be made to prevent exhaustion and overheating by checking crying spells even though it may mean relaxing disciplinary rules by taking up the child to soothe him or attracting his attention to some new toy or game.

The regular use of the scales should be continued but, in the event that the weight appears stationary, the quantity of food offered should not be increased until the doctor has been consulted.

Diarrhea and gaseous distension of the abdomen are indicative of digestive upsets and appear more frequently in hot weather than in cold. Any significant change in the number and consistency of the stools should be a signal for immediately decreasing the baby's food. A physician should be called.

If there is the slightest reason for suspecting that water and milk are not wholly free of germs, they should be boiled before being offered to the infant.

Yet this precautionary measure will be of little avail if the child is to be permitted to suck its thumb, to place toys in the mouth or to remain in a room being swept and dusted. It is probably unnecessary in this enlightened age to sound the old warning against kissing the baby but even members of the family should forbear handling or caressing him, particularly during the hot weather.

No doubt young parents will decide this advice is hopelessly old-fashioned and dictated chiefly by a desire to curtail their freedom. To that it may be said that parenthood is a responsibility entailing sacrifice. A sturdy little body, well prepared to withstand the communicable diseases of later childhood, can be assured only by constant parental vigilance during the first two years of life.

A weak solution of chloride of lime will remove peach stains from linen.

Ferns require light and air. They grow best when placed near a window where they do not get direct sunlight.

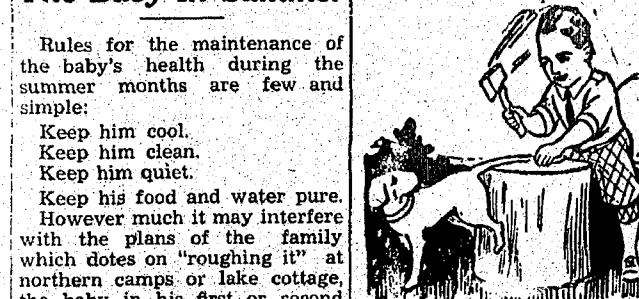

In making gelatin desserts a cup of fruit juice instead of water may be used, then flavor the sauce to contrast with or intensify it.

When using pastry flour in cooking, use a little more than when using bread flour. Bread flour thickens a little stiffer than pastry flour.

To cook mushrooms for creaming or escalloping, remove thin peeling, cover with water and boil gently in covered pan five minutes.

Preserved figs stuffed with white cream cheese and arranged on pine-apple slices placed on lettuce and topped with salad dressing makes a very good salad.

These folks down the river fairly make one dizzy; you see them and then you don't see them. Mrs. Graham John Graham is the hardest one of all to keep track of, but we think we have her covered at least until October. She thinks she will be in England; at least she is supposed to have sailed for England, but Bess, as she is known among her friends, is very apt to change her mind in mid ocean. Last year she expected to spend a few months in tropical islands. However after three or four days Bess discovered it was too hot and hopped a plane for home, which is supposed to be "Valhalla", Bloomfield Hills.

I believe even Toba the Japanese servant, wonders just when and where she will light, because I once heard him ask her, "Where you go now?" Nevertheless Bess and John Graham do enjoy their cabin on the AuSable and were here with guests not long ago. Mr. Graham is expected over the week end with Dr. Irwin Neff and Mr. William Thompson.

Mr. Frank Bromley and Mrs. Bromley's brother and his wife, also Mr. and Mrs. Blair of Bloomfield Hills, left Tuesday morning after a stay of several days at Whippoorwill. Mrs. Bromley, her daughter Katherine Sanderson and granddaughter Patsy, are remaining at Whippoorwill for a week or two.

Down river a little further Jim and Jennie Baily are occupying their cabin for their vacation.

Mrs. Gordon McDonald has just bid her guests goodbye after entertaining them two weeks. The McDonald Lodge isn't large but Lucy managed to take care of seven, Gene and Stanley McDonald of Detroit, and four of their guests. Lucy had a busy two weeks, but she won't stay put, either. She will be visiting friends in Bay City over the coming week end.

Another new cabin is on its way. Will Shaw has a good start on his, and it looks as though it will be a lovely place. Will, as you all know, is a first class carpenter and I'll bet the cabin will be worth seeing when he's finished with it.

I understand Alice Shaw, Walter Shaw's wife, expects to visit here soon. Steve Jennings and his family are living in the Shaw cabin now, so probably Alice will visit them, and all her numerous friends down the river will be glad to see her.

Chas. Trosien has been busy too, I understand. Lots of his relatives, nieces, nephews, sisters, brother, and in fact, I guess Charles has had all of his relations this summer, but Charlie has a lovely place for entertaining. With the addition of the new cabin he built not so long ago he can accommodate a good many persons.

Ned and Pat Wicks have been in their cabin for some time and have had lots of company. Pat's sisters visited her for several days and created quite a disturbance when one of them caught a trout. This wasn't a small trout either, and it was her first one! It all happened on a rainy day when the immediate neighborhood was resting. I understand Pat's sister insisted on fishing thru the rain even to the extent of wearing everyone's dry clothes, after she had exhausted her own supply. But I guess she was nearly at the finish of the dry wearing apparel when she really did the damage.

It doesn't sound so exciting, all she did was call, very loudly, "I have one, what will I do with it?" And the two cabins, Bails and the Wicks cabin literally belched forth humans. Pat claims she had never seen Ned move so fast. Jennie Baily was upstairs in their cabin relaxing, and it is reported that she didn't use the stairs, just jumped over the balcony.

The first trout any one catches is exciting, but Pat's sister doubled up on us, and managed to stir everyone within hearing out of their rainy day coma.

Lansing—Michigan is beginning to catch up with New England in summer theaters.

Two playhouses are thriving this summer in the north Michigan tourist belt around Charlevoix and Mancelona. Keyed to the fact that summer residents want night entertainment as well as day-time outdoor sports, the Ironon Playhouse near Charlevoix has presented two New York drama successes, "Double Door" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" while the Portage Point Players near Mancelona opened their season with "First Lady" by George Kaufman, being followed with "Yes, My Darling Daughter" by Mark Reed. Other plays at Portage Point are "Meet the Wife" by Lynn Starling and "Private Lives" by Noel Coward.

Whether it is a barn dance or a Broadway comedy, people crave the enjoyment of self expression and the vanity of recognition.

Summer theaters are a healthful development in our 300-million-dollar industry—the tourist business.

Festival Spirit

That Michigan is festival-minded has been long recognized.

Communities first sponsored festivals in thanksgiving for bountiful harvests. The "Blossom Time" and "National Cherry" festivals are two illustrations which prove the point.

Rapidly they have grown to be tourist attractions of the first magnitude, appealing to the universal love of beauty.

Whether it is at Interlochen where band concerts are held or near Hartford where church musicians gather for summer institutes, you will find Michigan a beehive of festival activity during the summer season.

The longest esker in the world extends from a few miles north of Lansing through Holt and Mason almost to Leslie. It is called the Mason "hog-back" or esker.

Michigan's "Hinge Line"

Again we can thank the ice glaciers for most of our 5,000 lakes which have contributed so much to Michigan's resort popularity.

The lakes are the remnants of larger glacial lakes. Many of them represent hunks of glacial ice which became detached from the main mass and were left buried in the land.

And again the geologists bring as news that all the lake beaches north of a line extending from near Port Huron to Manistee are tilted upward like a trap door and that this line is called the "hinge line". The reason? Merely the action of the earth in seeking equilibrium from terrific pressure exerted by the ice glaciers which were from two to six miles thick.

The first effect of this land tilting was to spill waters of the great lakes back into the Erie basin through the St. Clair and Detroit rivers. Then the present Great Lakes came into existence.

Measurements of Michigan beaches show that North America is rising at the rate of one inch every ten years for each 100 miles north of the hinge line.

In fact, according to Helen Martin, research geologist of the state department of conservation, from whose studies the above facts were obtained, the great lakes region may have earth shocks for many years to come, but they will not be serious enough to be disturbing.

The Grand river is the longest

Rivers "Who's Who"

With more than 5,000 lakes in Michigan had to be blessed with many beautiful rivers.

The St. Joseph, our oldest river, once drained to the Kankakee and the Mississippi, while the Raisin and the Huron were once its headwaters.

comes direct from a triumphant tour of the great State Fairs of United States and Canada, having shown at the Canadian National Exposition at Toronto, New York, Missouri, Ohio, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Vermont, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and a dozen other State Fairs.

There will be twelve different events of smashing, crashing and racing motor madness on the program and the members of the board feel that in bringing this sensational attraction here, they are keeping up with the times and giving the patrons the best that has ever been offered in special feature attractions. Preparations are being made to handle the largest crowd ever to attend on any one day. This feature will be shown on this one day only.
